BACKGROUND OF TRAGEDY BUILT BEHIND SLAYER

Mother Pictured as Insane Creature of Murderous Tendencies

BY DAN CAMPBELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) COURTROOM, Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—The mother of "The Fox" was pictured here today as an insane creature of murderous tendencies.

Into the innermost recesses of the life of Mrs. Eva Hickman the defense plunged today through the records of the state insane asylum in Little Rock, Ark.

Page after page of the cold official records were introduced as exhibits and their colorless recital slowly built behind the slayer of little Marion Parker a background of stark tragedy.

While the crowded courtroom sat in hushed expectancy, Jerome Walsh, youthful defense attorney, began reading the depositions secured in the middle west.

As his voice droned on the pathetic story of the Hickmans of the Ozarks was traced down from the hill country and down into the insane asylum in Little Rock, where Mrs. Hickman was committed in 1913.

Mrs. Hickman was adjudged insane by Judge Ira Hester, of Greenwood, Ark., upon the testimony of Doctors H. P. Routh and W. C. Chambers, both of Hartford.

Threatened Children Court records show that the mother of California's most brutal murderer not only attempted to take her own life, but made threats against her children and others.

Her own examination at the state hospital revealed that she was morose, would be given to fits of despondency that frequently culminated in rages that caused her to beat the walls of her room.

She admitted to examining physicians at the institution that "her mind was not right" and related how she was urged to run away from home, but always returned after starting away on one of these ventures.

The diagnosis of physicians made at the time Mrs. Hickman was committed to the hospital indicated

(By United Press) ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Jan. 31.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived safely at St. Thomas at 4:50 p. m., today, 3:50 p. m. eastern standard time, after a 1000-mile flight from Maracaibo, Venezuela.

Lindbergh Takes Off From Maracaibo At 6 A. M.

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Jan. 31.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off at 6 a. m., today, in his airplane, "Spirit of St. Louis," for St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. A 1000-mile jump which he planned to fly in a semi circle over the Antilles Islands.

By taking the route he did, Lindbergh avoided a long, dangerous hop over the Caribbean sea in the neighborhood where Paul Redfern, American flyer, was lost last summer on a non-stop flight to Brazil.

Twelve minutes after taking off the American goodwill ambassador had left Venezuelan territory and was out over the Caribbean, headed for Margarita Island, the first of the landmarks that were to guide him to St. Thomas.

INTRODUCES RESOLUTION IN OPPOSITION TO THIRD TERM

Reveals Report Hilles and Mellon Working Hand In Hand

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—A resolution condemning third presidential terms "as unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions," was introduced in the senate today by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin.

who announced he had been informed a new movement was afoot to "draft" President Coolidge for re-election.

"It is reliably reported that Charles Hilles, vice chairman of the national Republican committee, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon are working in close cooperation," LaFollette said, "and that a drive is on to obtain unstructured delegations in many states which will support the plan to 'draft the president.'"

LaFollette said he would demand an early vote on his resolution in the senate.

LaFollette cited the action of the New York state Republican leaders last Saturday in agreeing on an unstructured delegation which would first support Mr. Coolidge and said:

"That is conclusive proof that the movement to 'draft President Coolidge' and smash the third term tradition is gaining headway."

"Hilles, who has advocated persistently that the Republican party should not take seriously the statement that 'President Coolidge does not choose to run' is responsible for the Albany action."

The new resolution is similar to one LaFollette introduced at the last session of congress, which was not considered.

Coolidge Talk Contains Tax Slash Warning

Speech Leaves Impression He Will Veto Excessive Reduction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Congress was confronted today with what many regarded as a clear warning from President Coolidge that he will veto any excessive tax reduction bill.

In his speech to the 14th regular meeting of the business organization of the government last night, Mr. Coolidge said, "It is far better to have no tax reduction than too much," and cautioned against disturbing budget equilibrium by excessive tax reduction. Hitherto he has stood for $225,000,000 tax reduction and his speech indicated he still regards that as a safe limit.

The tax warning was coupled with a statement that the new navy program now before congress envisages only U. S. requirements without contemplating competition in construction with other nations.

$20.55 Per Second The president revealed that America will spend $20.55 a second—$1233 every minute—for national defense the next fiscal year.

"The recommendation now before congress to replace obsolete naval vessels and moderately increase our naval strength contemplates an orderly construction procedure, nothing more," he said.

Mr. Coolidge stressed economy throughout his address.

He said he previously had expressed himself in favor of a moderate tax reduction, indicating the maximum tax government can now afford is $225,000,000. Some say in his warning against disturbing the budget's equilibrium a warning of a veto of tax cuts exceed this figure.

"No Partisan Thought" "There was no partisan thought in that recommendation," he continued. "I hope there will be none in its final consideration by congress."

"The budget for 1929, which forecast a surplus of $252,540,000, now is before congress. The action so far taken by the congress on that budget indicates no intention of a veto."

Tufenkjian told police Hagopian had come to his home last night with a demand for money. When refused, according to the story told police, Hagopian wrote the death note and left.

LOST UNDERSEA BOAT AND CREW REPORTED SAFE

Missing Submarine Located Making Way Alone to Guantanamo Bay

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The submarine S-3 with its crew of 41 officers and men, is safe.

The submersible, sister ship of the ill fated S-4, was located at 8 o'clock last night, ploughing its way southward about 280 miles due east of Palm Beach, Fla., after it had been missing since Saturday.

At that time an armada of 25 rescue vessels was making a search from the north and south in search of the S-3, which had become separated from the remainder of a fleet of submarines proceeding from Hampton Roads, Va., to Guantanamo bay, Cuba, for winter maneuvers.

The navy department still was without word today as to the reason for the S-3's long silence, not a word having been heard from the craft between its disappearance and its discovery in the Bahamas.

Removes Nation's Fears At 1:25 a. m., the navy made its announcement, which removed the nation's fears for the safety of the S-3's crew. The announcement said merely the submarine had been located at 8 p. m., at latitude 27:30; longitude 74:07, and was proceeding under its own power to Guantanamo bay.

Rear Adm. Frank H. Brumby, commander of the patrol force of which the S-3 was part, made the report to the navy. He had received the word from the commander of the submarine division, which had joined in the search together with the airplane carrier

SUSPECT SOUGHT IN UNDERWORLD CRIME

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Fred "Iron Duke" Morris was being sought by deputy sheriffs here today as they sought to solve the murder of William Rosen, alleged underworld leader, who was "taken for a ride."

It was Morris' confession which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Ollie Lowe and Evan "Bill" Sykes on a charge of jewel robbery at a bridge party. Rosen was to have been a prosecution witness.

Mrs. Lowe was a guest at a party in the home of Mrs. J. C. Cummins and her jewels were taken, as were those of the other women, but the state contends she was an agent of Sykes. At the preliminary hearing Rosen testified he had been asked to take part in the holdup.

Arraigned in superior court yesterday, the couple was granted a postponement until Monday.

Three Broadway Properties Will Be Improved By Business Construction

START IN SIX MONTHS

F. B. Smith, Santora Land Firm and Development Company Are Promoters

A PROGRAM of Broadway property owners between Fourth and First street, involving the expenditure of approximately $250,000 in the construction of new buildings, was revealed today by men interested in advancement of the street as one of the important business thoroughfares of the city.

The Santa Ana Development company, Santora Land company and F. B. Smith are the promoters of the building program and Smith and representatives of the two companies have attached their signatures to an agreement to start within six months the construction of not less than two-story business structures on their respective properties.

Own Market Property The development company, with A. N. Zerman as president and F. L. Purinton, secretary, is the owner of the Grand Central Market property and the signatures of the two officers obligate the company to a building program on the 75 feet fronting on Broadway at the southwest corner of Second and Broadway.

The Santora Land company is the owner of the 150 feet on the northeast corner of Second and Broadway, part of which now is vacant. The corrugated iron building, near the corner, used as the home of a second-hand car market, is on the property and will be razed when construction work is started.

W. A. Huff is president of the company and H. J. Forgy is secretary.

F. B. Smith owns a frontage of 117 feet running south from the alley immediately at the rear of the Moore building on the corner of Broadway and Fourth. Smith agrees to erect a new building on 50 feet of his frontage.

No Tenants Yet Pointing out that the owners have entered into an agreement to carry on a building enterprise for the purpose of creating a larger business district, Purinton said that at this time tenants have not been procured for any of the properties. It is expected, however,

KIDNAPER-BANDIT ARRESTED IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Edward Cardenti, 21, was in custody here today on the complaint of two women who charged that he had entered their automobiles, robbed them and held them captives while forcing them to drive about the city.

Cardenti first accosted Miss Gertrude Friedly as she emerged from a Hollywood dancing school. He climbed into her automobile and ordered her to drive into the country. There he is said to have forced her to give him her ring, which he later pawned. Clad only in a coat and a bathing suit, her dancing school garb, she was thrown from the car.

Later Cardenti confronted Mrs. V. Vaughn and took the wheel of her car. When he crashed into another car and Mrs. Vaughn sobbed that she had been kidnapped, Cardenti was turned over to police. He had earlier stripped her jewelry from her.

Airplanes Making War Unlikely, In Patrick's Opinion

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired chief of the army air service, said today that airplanes are so deadly from the standpoint of non-combatants that they are rapidly forcing nations into arbitration of their differences and thus making another war extremely unlikely.

General Patrick will speak tonight at the annual banquet of the League of Nations Non-Partisan association.

GRAND CENTRAL MARKET SAVED FROM FLAMES

Fire which broke out in the Bee Hive delicatessen, in the center of the Grand Central market, at 1 o'clock this morning threatened for an hour to gut the entire building and, before extinguished, had almost destroyed the delicatessen and had damaged several other stores surrounding it.

Fast work on the part of Santa Ana firemen saved the entire building, in the opinion of D. R. Treve, proprietor of the Bee Hive, who was one of the first on the scene when the flames were discovered.

Other Stores Damaged
Other stores damaged, mostly by water and broken glass, were the Eaton bakery, across the aisle from the Bee Hive, Daley's grocery, Fred Trippett's agency for the California Cleaning works, Sunshine Cleaners and the Charles Moomaw barber shop.

The cleaner's agency, located just south of the delicatessen, was badly damaged. The extent of the loss there is not known, however.

Service of 115 telephone patrons was severed through the destruction of a shot-pair cable directly beneath the Bee Hive, according to E. S. Morrow, manager of the telephone company. Service was restored late this morning, when a new cable was installed.

Treve estimated his damage at between $3000 and $3500.

Much of his canned goods was destroyed, his counters were broken and the ice plant badly damaged. His fixtures were reduced to ruins.

Ceiling Is Damaged
Flames shot up inside the building and badly damaged the ceiling of the market.

Most of the damage done to the barber shop, the bakery, grocery and other nearby stores consisted of scorched woodwork and broken glass.

Mystery surrounds the origin of the blaze. Fire Chief Luxembourg, making an investigation today, was of the opinion that the blaze was the result of spontaneous combustion in the delicatessen.

Treve, who lives across the street from the market, reported he heard several explosions at 12:45 a. m. and made an investigation. He said he first saw the flames flicking through the skylight on the roof of the market.

$250,000 BUILDING PROGRAM REVEALED

that tenants will be available by the time construction work starts. The improvements are to be started on or before July 1, according to the agreement, and it is possible that work will be started by some of the group in advance of that time. It is understood plans now are being drawn for some of the buildings.

It is said that it is possible the Minter property, consisting of 150 feet on the southwest corner of Third and Broadway, will be included in the building activity.

Commenting on the program, Purinton said the width of Broadway was favorable to the development of a business district and he predicted that within a few short years it would be one of the most active of the business thoroughfares in the city.

BACKGROUND OF INSANITY BUILT BEHIND SLAYER

that she was a person of unsound mind and this was further corroborated by the deposition of Dr. L. R. Brown, superintendent of the institution.

Nurse Thinks Mother Insane
To this Mrs. Marshall Smith, of Sugar Creek, Mo., further deposed that she nursed Mrs. Hickman at the asylum and that in her opinion the mother of "The Fox" was insane.

Dr. H. E. Routh, of Tulsa, Okla., who attended Mrs. Hickman at one time shortly after the birth of William Edward, testified through a deposition that Mrs. Hickman showed many symptoms of insanity. Dr. Routh testified that Mrs. Hickman's condition may have resulted from the birth of the slayer. Dr. Routh also was acquainted to some extent with Thomas Hickman, the father, whose character was further besmirched by the testimony.

Although Mrs. Hickman was paroled in the custody of her husband, who promised the court to be responsible for her, it was brought out that he continued his asserted amours with other women.

In brief, the life of the woman was laid bare and in ruthless fashion the defense built its insanity case upon the shattered existence of the woman whose life reached its climax with her son branded a fiend.

Hickman Popular in School
Don Johnson, pal of "Eddie" Hickman at Central junior high school, deposed that "The Fox" was one of the most popular and brilliant students in the institution.

He related that Hickman was president of the high school chapter of the National Honor society and excelled in all his studies, particularly in civics and public speaking.

Johnson testified that Hickman suddenly underwent a change after losing the biggest school debate of the year. He said the slayer appeared to believe himself to blame for the defeat.

Johnson said that he grew morose and all efforts to bring him back to his normal cheerful nature were futile.

He described how Hickman plunged into the preparation for the debate and how, after losing it, he became embittered and turned against his former pals.

He related how the slayer resigned from the National Honor society in a fit of rage and appeared to be more and more despondent, losing all interest in his former associates.

Johnson declared that he believed Hickman insane.

Legal Loophole Seen
While the specters of William Edward Hickman's "frenzied" relatives were paraded through the courtroom here today, a legal loophole was foreseen through which "The Fox" eventually may crawl to freedom.

The fight to save the 19-year-old mental paradox, whose bloody trail of crime ended with the butchery of little Marion Parker, may ultimately be settled in the supreme court of the United States, it was indicated.

By a strange twist of fate, California's most brutal murderer may find appeal from his possible conviction of slaying the Parker child through the very law through which he is now seeking to escape the gallows.

While District Attorney A. A. Keyes refused to comment on the latest phase of the case today, legal minds of Los Angeles are in general accord with the contention of S. S. Hahn, noted criminal lawyer, that the newly revised penal code of California is unconstitutional.

Code Generally Weak
The district attorney's office admitted, however, that that section of the code governing pleas of "not guilty by reason of insanity" to murder indictments was generally weak. Observers believe that the present proceedings will prove futile.

Defense Attorney Richard Cantillon refused to comment on Hahn's contention, but intimated that it was a subject which would be given consideration at the time of sentence in the event that Hickman is found to be sane by the eight men and four women sworn in yesterday.

Hahn contends that Hickman never has actually entered a plea as to his guilt or innocence and cannot be sentenced to hang until he has received a trial by jury on this issue, the present proceedings being only to determine his sanity.

LOST SUBMARINE REPORTED SAFE

Saratoga and numerous other naval vessels.

Brumby's message lifted the tension that had been evident at the navy department since sundown Sunday, when the S-3 vanished in a rain squall and heavy seas during a storm 100 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, "graveyard of the Atlantic."

Admiral Hughes Elated
"I am elated," said Admiral Hughes, chief of navy operations, when he learned the S-3 was safe. "But I am not surprised. I contended all along the vessel was proceeding to Guantanamo."

Despite the navy's justified confidence that the S-3 was safe, the department had taken no chances of another tragedy such as befell the S-4 a month ago off Provincetown, Mass.

Brumby's flagship, the Camden, set out with six submarines to search from Cape Hatteras south. The carrier Saratoga yesterday set out with its 45 planes to sweep a broad expanse of ocean for sight of the missing submarine.

A squadron of 14 destroyers and three light cruisers was steaming north to join the search when word was received that the S-3 had been found.

Outlawing Of Submarine Urged By Frothingham

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Outlawing of the submarine was urged in the house today by Representative Frothingham, Republican, Massachusetts, who advocated passage of his resolution to place Congress on record as favoring negotiations with other powers to this end.

Advocates Use Of State Rice Straw

WILLOWS, Calif., Jan. 31.—Rice straw, made into cigarette papers and other articles, would bring $750,000 a year to Butte, Sutter and Glenn county ranchers.

This is the suggestion of Mrs. Julia E. Stewart, chamber of commerce secretary at Chico, who says that establishment of a rice paper mill in Sacramento could utilize more than 150,000 tons of rice straw, now going to waste.

The straw, produced within 60 miles of Chico, is usually destroyed by burning.

the oil at $150?"
"I don't remember that we could have bought it for $150."

"You know that nobody ever heard of the Continental company before and that it did not have one cent of credit of its own without your guarantee?"

"I don't know."

The Teapot Dome committee learned from John D. Clark, president of the Midwest Refining company, of Denver, that Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neill, missing oil witnesses, were involved in a secret deal to purchase Mexico, Texas, oil in 1912.

From the profits, H. F. Sinclair, oil magnate, is charged with having sent $233,000 to former Secretary of the Interior Fall, after Fall leased Sinclair the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

Clark said Blackmer did not act for the Midwest company in the deal and handled it "entirely personally," without Clark's knowledge.

Clark, however, submitted letters and telegrams from company files, showing how Blackmer, (Midwest's chairman) Stewart and O'Neill were angling with A. E. Humphreys, of the Mexico fields, for the oil.

It was the first time the three definitely had been involved in the transaction.

Stewart never has testified publicly about his connection with the deal, having been out of the country when wanted previously; Blackmer has been located in Paris, but will not return, and no trace can be found of O'Neill.

Stewart notified the committee he would appear tomorrow.

Government Rests Case Against Sinclair, Burns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The government today rested its case against Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, William J. Burns, noted detective, and four associates charged with contempt of court in having Burns detectives shadow Fall-Sinclair trial jurors.

Defense lawyers immediately demanded that Justice Siddons strike from the record some of the testimony. Later it was indicated they will move for dismissal of the government's charges.

The end of the prosecution evidence came at the eighth week of Gilbert today declared that credit for his success here in a measure has been due to consistent and honest advertising in The Register, and he pointed with considerable pride to a scrap book containing his ad in the first issue of this paper and the hundreds of advertisements he has since inserted.

The growth of the enterprise is reflected in the volume of business done year by year, with each succeeding year showing a gain. The volume has increased from $10,000 at the end of his first year to $150,000 shown for 1927.

The retiring merchant has performed community service and has been active in public affairs that have resulted in the progress of the community. He was a director of the chamber of commerce for three years and vice president one year, and for four years was a director of the Merchants and Manufacturers association, recently absorbed by the Business Men's association, and his last identification with that organization as an officer was as president. He is an ardent golfer and for 10 years was a director of the Orange County Golf club, and was a vice president of the Santa Ana Country club, successor to the Orange county club. He is a member of the Los Angeles Athletic club, the Pacific Coast Beach club of Long Beach, and is a life member of Santa Ana Lodge No. 794, B. P. O. E.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert are anticipating a trip abroad next year and are making plans at this time. According to Gilbert, the new owner will keep intact the present force. PHONE TOLLS SYSTEM AGAIN UNDER ATTACK

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Further attacks on the telephone tolls system in Southern California were made today by Councilman Hall in a resolution adopted unanimously by the city council.

The resolution asks that City Attorney Stephens be requested to furnish U. S. Senators Johnson and Shortridge, of California, with local data to aid in the proposed senatorial nation-wide investigation into telephone rates.

The resolution: "Whereas, a resolution has been presented in the U. S. senate providing for a thorough investigation of the affairs and the business methods of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and

"Whereas, hearings in connection with the rate cases of the Southern California Telephone and Telegraph company, serving Los Angeles and environs, have established that increased telephone tolls have been granted this concern by reason of its domination by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and

"Whereas, the federal investigation of the Parent Telephone corporation may have the effect of bringing about substantial reductions in the telephone rates of Los Angeles and surrounding communities, and it is therefore of extreme interest to this city that the probe be pressed to its fullest extent, now therefore:

"Be It Resolved, that City Attorney Stephens be requested to furnish Senators Johnson and Shortridge such information as he may possess with regard to the control of the local telephone system by the American Telephone and Telegraph company and to otherwise co-operate in the investigation to the end that reduction of telephone rates be made;

"Be It Further Resolved, that copies of this resolution be telegraphed to Senators Johnson and Shortridge and to the Southern California representatives in the house of representatives."

432 TELEPHONES PLACED IN USE HERE DURING PAST YEAR

Santa Ana had a growth of 432 telephones, or a 8.10 per cent increase during 1927, according to E. S. Morrow, district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. There are now 5763 telephones in the exchange. These figures show that the gain for 1927 was larger than that of 1926, when there were 376 telephones added and a 7.61 per cent gain.

"This growth brings added usefulness to every telephone in the exchange," said Morrow. "The more telephones there are interconnected in the exchange, the more you can call and, therefore, this 8.10 per cent increase in scope of service of Santa Ana exchange subscribers, is of real value and interest to each telephone user."

Redwood Tract Saved By League

CRESCENT CITY, Jan. 31.—Through efforts of the Save the Redwoods league in co-operation with supervisors of Del Norte county and the state highway commission, a 20-acre tract of Redwoods near here is to be preserved as a public park.

Discovering that the tract of land which harbors a large grove of Redwoods was owned by a company that contemplated cutting the timber, $5,500 was raised and the property purchased.

Acquisition of the property is in furtherance of the league's policy of preserving the scenic beauty of the Redwood highway. The tract is the first piece of timber land reached on the new section of the highway north of here.

The league is also urging the passage of the six million dollar state park bond issue to go before the voters in November.

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fitless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation; and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no paraffin, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for your child. All children love to take it. Delicious tasting, and as good as it tastes. Just look for the Fletcher signature on the package and you will know you have the genuine and pure Castoria.

P. E. MAY QUIT BUS SERVICES IN SANTA ANA

Complete abandonment of the Pacific Electric motor bus service in Santa Ana may be a happening of the immediate future, should the city refuse to grant a change in the schedule here which will reduce the service on unprofitable portions of present routes.

This was the intimation in discussions with the city council at a conference yesterday afternoon when E. Clark, superintendent of the southern division, and J. A. Burlingame, manager of the motor coach division of the railway company, presented facts supporting statements that the company lines here are operating at a heavy loss.

The railroad men explained that the company believed that Santa Ana should have some kind of a motor coach service, and that it was willing to continue operations here if it could reduce its annual losses to some extent by changes in the present system and elimination of certain portions of the three routes maintained now.

The proposed change would reduce the employees in the operating department from 10 to seven and eliminate service in the north-west part of the city and a portion of the east section. By running coaches in reverse order over the same route, service in the south, southwest and west portions of the city would be on virtually a fifteen minute schedule, although the two stages on the run would be running on half-hour schedules.

Report of an investigation by engineers of the railroad commission completed a month ago was submitted by the Pacific Electric representatives, and the observations revealed that in spite of the fact that the population of the city has been increasing since the institution of the bus line, patronage of the company had steadily dropped. The drop also was in the face of an extension of the service from time to time, the stages on the route traveling in the last half of 1927 many thousands of miles more than in previous periods.

The report covered a survey of operations here since institution of the system, and it revealed that during the first six months of 1927 the company sustained an out-of-pocket loss of $135,399 a month. The loss does not include interest on investment or depreciation of rolling stock.

"No substantial economy in the operation of these lines, other than complete abandonment, is apparent," reads the concluding paragraph in the report by the commission investigators.

The representatives said the company would like to give the suggested schedule a trial before abandonment of the service, and that if costs were reduced to half the loss, the company probably would continue its lines.

The council advised the railroad men to submit their request later in writing, the notice to include just what is proposed in the suggested schedule.

CITY CLERK INSTRUCTED BY COUNCIL TO ADVERTISE FOR BIDS FOR SALE OF CITY HALL

With representatives of the chamber of commerce and the playgrounds committee of the board of education appearing before the city council at an informal session yesterday afternoon and requesting funds for their respective activities, the councilmen today were making a check on their funds and budgeted expenses in an effort to find a way to meet the requests.

J. A. Cranston, superintendent of the city schools, and J. W. Archer, director playgrounds, revealed a program for the summer on a scale double that of last summer. The committee asked an appropriation of $2500 to match an equal amount to be set aside for the work by the board of education. It was revealed that the program proposes operation of 11 playgrounds this summer.

George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, recounted details of a publicity program that has about been completed, and asked for an appropriation of $900 to meet a deficit in the fund for this purpose. Some high grade maps and pictorials of Santa Ana and vicinity were the particular items that extended the publicity costs beyond an appropriation previously made.

Incidentally, the secretary disclosed that from December 1, 1927, to January 15, 1928, 2717 letters had been received from persons who had read of Santa Ana in the 58 eastern papers in which advertisements had been inserted. Nineteen persons had come into the office of the chamber as a direct result of the ads, Raymer said.

To Ask Bids
In regular session last night, the city governing body made its first official move in an attempt to sell the city hall property on the southeast corner of Main and Third streets by authorizing the city clerk to advertise for sealed proposals, bids to be opened on the evening of February 27. The council is anticipating a bid of at least $100,000, for it has been intimated it will not consider sale of the holdings for less.

Should a sale be made, the council contemplates giving the money to the board of education for the Frances Willard junior high school site at Tenth and Main streets and establishment of a civic center on the school site. It is said that the board of education is considering the advisability of establishing the junior high school on the Lincoln school grounds in event the contemplated exchange with the city is made.

That the city is considering a lot in the 600 block on Cypress avenue as a site for a new fire hall was brought out at the meeting. The property is owned by J. F. Lamp. Final consideration probably will be given the proposition at the meeting of the body next Monday evening.

Refers Petition
A request from Fern S. Bishop that property on Third street east of the Santa Fe tracks be changed from the neighborhood business zone to heavy industrial zone was referred to the planning commission.

Daniel Dokovitch was given the contract for installing a sewer line on Towner street. His bid was $779.36.

The city engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for paving an extension of North Broadway to the Southern Pacific tracks. The plans will provide for sidewalk and curb on the west side of the street and curbing only on the east side.

Application of Edward Cochem and others for permission to erect a garage building at 1801 West Fourth street was referred to a joint meeting of the council and planning commission on Monday evening.

Because of failure to secure a quorum of the planning commission, consideration of the application for a change in the zoning classification of property on East Second from French to Garfield was continued for one week.

J. L. Erda was given permission to open a store at 819 East Fourth street for the buying and selling of second hand jewelry.

H. C. Webster was denied permission to establish an auto camp on the southeast corner of First and Lyon streets. The committee investigating expressed the opinion that location of a camp on the corner would be detrimental to property in that vicinity.

Ask For Band
Two requests were made for the services of the Santa Ana municipal band, one coming from Long Beach and one from the National Orange show at San Bernardino. The band was asked to fill in for the Long Beach band for concerts at Long Beach on Sunday evenings, February 18 and 27. The council directed acceptance of one of the evenings, the band management to select one of the two dates. It was pointed out that the Sunday evening programs at Long Beach are broadcast. The request from San Bernardino was taken under advisement. The mayor also was authorized to sign a contract for a year with D. C. Cianfoni for continuing his services as director of the organization.

The city manager was directed to enter into a contract with the Electrical Products corporations for the installation of two Neon electrical signs at entrances to Santa Ana, one to be located on North Main street and the other on East First street. The authorization is on condition that the company comply with certain requests as to installation.

Permission was given the Kilpatrick Baking company to install a gasoline tank at its place of business on North Main street, and M. J. Mastick for installation of a tank at 1535 West Seventeenth.

A permit was granted the Cope Electric company for hanging an electric sign for William LeVecke, 420 North Broadway.

Plans and specifications were adopted for a new reservoir at the corner of First and Flower streets and February 20 was set as the time for opening bids for construction. The reservoir is to have a capacity of 850,000 gallons and it is hoped to have it completed by June 1.

As far as is known, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sedric Brown, of Santa Ana, is the youngest child in Orange county to ever taken an extensive trip by airplane.

The daughter, Miss Patricia—six weeks old—flew with her parents to Los Angeles last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Maddux to be week-end guests.

Mr. Maddux is president of the Maddux Airlines company of Los Angeles and also president of Maddux, Inc., Los Angeles Lincoln agency. Mrs. Maddux is secretary of both these companies.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddux flew to Santa Ana last Saturday in the big 12-passenger tri-motored Ford Air-Liner, accompanied by several guests prominent in Los Angeles society life. They were the Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, who in returning to Los Angeles were their guests until Monday morning.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Maddux were old friends in San Diego, and Mr. Brown introduced Mrs. Maddux to Mr. Maddux.

TEST FOR DRUNKS
LONDON, Jan. 31.—An English justice ruled that if two litres of a man's breath contained 1.5 milligrammes of alcohol, the man was 50 per cent drunk and guilty of drunkenness. Then someone discovered that a football bladder would hold about two litres of breath. Now when an Englishman, brought in for drunkenness, denies the charge he is forced to blow up a bladder. If the evidence shows him to be more than 50 per cent drunk, the magistrate invariably holds it conclusive and hands out a stiff fine.

FLOOD CONTROL BODY UNEARTHS QUAKE FAULTS

The Orange County Flood control organization, under the direction of Paul Bailey, was credited today with uncovering a piece of news which, so far as can be learned, never has been published in any newspaper of this section.

Information regarding two earthquake faults, a few thousand or perhaps a million years old, has been unearthed in the Santa Ana canyon, according to Bailey.

The faults are sealed and perhaps would have slight significance to residents here except for their possible relation to the water conservation program, according to Bailey.

E. K. Soper, geologist of the organization, is tracing the ancient disruptions through the canyon. Any connection that may have been caused among the canyon inhabitants by the ancient tremors died out centuries ago, it was pointed out, and the faults probably have remained unchanged since their original slipping.

According to Bailey, Orange county's interest lies in the fact that two possible dam sites probably have been eliminated by the discovery of the old faults. Although no fear is felt that new disturbances might occur, he explained that possible weakness in the underground structure at these points would make it wise to give more consideration to some of the other locations which are being studied.

Other locations in the Santa Ana canyon which are being surveyed, and which have no relation to the old faults, are located just below Prado and near the head of the Santa Ana canal, he said.

Scully's point and a site just below it are the ones which are affected by the discovery. The Chino-Elsinore and the Whittier-Fuente faults are the ones which cross the canyon, Bailey stated. The former passes under the alluvial fill to the east of the possible Prado dam site but would have no effect on this location, he declared. The second fault goes through the Puente hills and crosses Brea and Carbon canyons. The latter one has been traced through oil fields in that region, Bailey pointed out, recalling that both ancient quakes have been known to oil geologists for some time.

Other locations in the Santa Ana canyon which are being surveyed, and which have no relation to the old faults, are located just below Prado and near the head of the Santa Ana canal, he said.

Glee Club Gives Program At H. B. Chamber Session

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 31.—Members of the Pomona College Glee club furnished an impromptu program at the meeting of the chamber of commerce here yesterday. When members of the chamber gathered at the Rotary Sweet shop for luncheon, the glee club was occupying the chamber room.

W. B. Mandeville, president of the chamber, prevailed upon the glee club members to render several selections.

The resignation of John H. Eader from the city planning committee, which was named some time ago by the chamber of commerce members, featured the business meeting. The chamber directors authorized the committee to appoint a successor to Eader.

SHORTTRIDGE TO SEEK INCREASE GLASS TARIFF

With resumption of operations by the Standard American Glass company dependent on action by congress on the tariff measure, George Raymer has started investigations to learn the status of the measure, and today received a telegram from United States Senator Sam Shortridge advising that he will at once make investigations and report to the chamber the status of the bill.

Strong influence is working in the interest of a 40 per cent increase in the tariff on window glass, and it is asserted that if this tax is added American manufacturers of glass will have better opportunity to maintain their plants in competition with the production of foreign countries upon the costs of cheap labor.

Raymer said it is hoped to secure a tariff that will balance the labor costs between the foreign countries and the United States, the secretary pointing out that American glass workers could not and would not live under the conditions existing among the same class of workmen in some of the foreign countries.

The local glass company has a big investment in factory building and equipment here, and it is asserted the shut down was forced by the fact that it could not produce its product here at a profit and compete with the imported glass products of the same nature.

STRONG CAST IS NAMED FOR COMING PLAY

The first play of the Santa Ana Community Players' 1928 season, will bring to the stage several of the members of the organization who have achieved outstanding success in past seasons, according to Arthur Collins, president of the organization.

The new director, Mrs. Marion Helm Williams, had the assistance of a casting committee who was familiar with all the players and their work. In addition careful tryouts were held over a period of several weeks to be sure that those chosen to interpret the parts were best fitted for each.

ceasing with a part in "The Whole Town's Talking." Last year, will take the role of Miss Anna Moore Wynne, another member of the very interesting Wynne family.

Emil Foust has taken juvenile roles in a number of productions in Santa Ana in his high school days, later in the junior college and later still with the Community Players. Of the younger players his work has always been outstandingly clever. In "Love in a Mist" he takes the part of Count Scipione Varello, an aristocratic Italian, artistic, erratic and very much in love.

In Kizzy, the colored maid, play-lovers will see, for the first time in Santa Ana, the work of Miss Mabel C. Larrick who in everyday life is well known as the affable young lady who has charge of the office at Boy Scout headquarters. Those who have been present at rehearsals declare Miss Larrick is a real find for the players.

Another player new to Santa Ana audiences is Rex Hoover of Laguna Beach who takes the role of Cobie, a character as interesting as he is amusing. Hoover has taken part in Little Theater plays at Laguna Beach and his work is declared excellent. There always has been the most cordial relations between the Santa Ana Players and the Little Theater players at Laguna Beach and those relations are expected to be still more closely cemented by the appearance here of a Laguna player.

SUNSET CLUB NEW OFFICERS ARE SELECTED

The Sunset club of Santa Ana does not crave publicity. Contrary to the modern methods of push and hurry to get into the news columns, this organization has just today let it leak out that, on January 1, its members inaugurated a new custom of Saturday afternoon and evening luncheons.

Not that they care particularly if the rest of the world knows it, W. M. Clayton, secretary-treasurer of the club, volunteered the information today. And, according to him, the innovation is proving to be a great success.

Furthermore the Sunset club has elected new officers and installed them. A. E. White fills the office of president. A. J. Visel is vice president, Clayton is secretary-treasurer, and Capt. G. H. Hall is assistant.

These men, with C. E. Parker, H. G. Meyer, Jud House and E. E. Turner, compose the board of directors.

The house committee consists of Joe Lowell, E. J. Eaton and Guy Cunningham.

The finance committee is made up of E. E. Vincent, George W. Smith and L. V. Silver.

The entertainment committee includes D. F. Cook, H. C. Dawes and Dr. L. L. Whitson.

Amounting to $5,000 or Over, Left by Decedents, Disappear in From Seven to Ten Years

The dissipation of life insurance estates of over $5,000 which are left in lump sums is usually complete in less than 10 years. It has become evident to all that life insurance to replace income should be paid out as income and not in a lump sum.

The Insurance Trust, as managed by the First National Bank, provides for the economic conservation of monies by distributing the income and keeping the principal intact, except in emergencies.

The Insurance Trust delegates to the First National Bank the power of exercising the same discretion and judgment in the management and disbursement of your property which you yourself employ during your lifetime.

AGRICULTURAL DIRECTOR TELLS ABOUT INDUSTRY

Explains Reasons for Beef Culling More

Says Stock Showing First Profit Since 1920

By G. H. HECKE
Director California Department of Agriculture

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—(Exclusive).—One of agriculture's greatest drawbacks in this country is the seeming lack of understanding or appreciation of its problems by business in general. It is frequently heard that the biggest problem which confronts the farming industry is overvalued by the inexorable law of supply and demand only. In other words, the solution for the problem must await the time when consumption catches up with production.

The manufacturer, they tell us, regulates his production in accordance with this principle and his business is so organized as to enable him to contract or expand production in accordance with demand. This, of course, the farmer cannot do, at least under the prevailing disorganized conditions and when he has a surplus not only this, but his entire crop often must be disposed of in some unprofitable manner.

The law of supply and demand works out differently, however, for the manufacturer than for the farmer. The manufacturer reserves the privilege also of taking advantage of this law when supplies are short, although the farmer is not infrequently denied the same opportunity.

WATCHES MARKET.
Not only is the manufacturer able to protect himself by regulating supply to demand and therefore stabilizing prices satisfactory to himself, but it is not unusual for him to take advantage of conditions when the demand is excessive by increasing profits.

But when the farmer seeks to recoup his losses suffered in previous seasons of surplus crops and low prices by increasing the price for the commodity he is selling when the crop is short, it is not uncommon for him to be threatened with a boycott. In such a case no voice is raised in his behalf and the law of supply and demand is forgotten by his critics.

A case in point was the attempt in New York and other eastern cities to start a movement to refuse to buy beef until the prices were lower. Evidently this movement had at least the tacit approval of part of the eastern press for one paper in a recent editorial, inferred that the movement would be successful, and suggestively stated that the consumer might even turn to spinach, carrots, cabbage and turnips as a substitute for beef.

While there can be no objection to the consumer substituting cheaper foodstuffs for those that are higher, it is only fair to the cattle raiser and the butcher that all the facts be brought to light. It is true that cattle are higher today than at any time during the past six years, but there is a good reason. As a matter of fact, this is the first year since 1920 that cattlemen have made a profit on their sales.

During the past six years prices were so low that herds have been reduced materially and many cattlemen were ruined financially and forced out of business. As a result of these conditions the country is now faced with a shortage of beef cattle.

It would seem only fair and just therefore, that these cattlemen who have hung on during this period should be entitled to recoup at least some of the losses sustained during these lean years. And if the law of supply and demand works both ways in other industries here is a fitting time for at least one branch of agriculture to profit from it.

ORANGE COUNTY RANKS NINTH IN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT OVER CALIFORNIA REPORTS REVEAL

Orange county, which ranks ninth among the 58 counties of California in school enrollment and stands forty-fifth in the number of pupils in its elementary schools.

The accelerated pupil, it is explained by the state department of education, is the one who shows such remarkable capabilities for learning that he is permitted to "skip a grade," or advance ahead of fellows of the same age.

The state of California is rapidly increasing its educational system to provide for not only these and girls of unusual brilliance, but for their more unfortunate brothers and sisters classified as "retarded" pupils, who because of sickness, or slowness to learn, are placed in grades below those of their age.

Started pupils constituted 34 1/2 percent of Orange county's school enrollment, or a total of 5000 in last 12-month period covered by report in the hands of William Cooper, state superintendent of public instruction. This is the county 18th among the states of the state in this respect.

Orange county ranks 40th in total number of normal students, with total of 9089 or 82.73 percent of total enrollment.

Considerable research work is being done among county superintendents and other educational organizations toward adjustment of types of study and types of material to care for the retarded or deranged child.

Our aim is to give each pupil chance to go ahead as fast as ability permits," says the board of education's report. "At no point did we dub a child a failure because he has not completed a piece of work within a given time."

Children are gifted in many ways, so if things are not working out, let us look to our misfit methods of study, misfit methods of teaching. The child is standard to which all things are to be adjusted, and the more perfect that adjustment is, the better the school.

We are thankful that over one-fourth of the counties in California have given up the old, worn eighth grade examination, and hope the others will do so.

DIDN'T THINK LAWYER ASSET: FOUND GUILTY

"Fat" Joe Rosales, of Atwood, doesn't believe a lawyer is much of an asset when a liquor trial is in progress. He thought he could get the affair over just as quickly without the aid of an attorney. And he did.

Today he is waiting to be sentenced for selling whiskey. He was convicted yesterday by a jury after he had pleaded not guilty. Charles Carillo, interpreter, claims to have told Rosales of the danger of neglecting to secure an attorney. But his efforts in this direction seem to have been ignored.

Deputy District Attorney S. B. Kaufman represented the people. What representing was done for Rosales, he did himself. And observers say it didn't last long. The whole trial including selection of a jury lasted not more than two hours.

Superior Judge Homer G. Ames will pronounce judgment next Friday at 9:30 a. m. Rosales is one of the 46 who were arrested recently in the liquor raid staged by District Attorney Z. B. West Jr. and Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

CRANSTON SAYS REED BILL IS STEP FORWARD

The day of educational practice based on theory or notions is past. Such practice in the future must be based on discovered facts.

J. A. Cranston, superintendent of Santa Ana schools, called attention today to this contention made by Susan M. Dorsey, Los Angeles school superintendent, in a recent educational publication.

Referring to the Reed-Curtis bill providing for creating a national department of education in the president's cabinet, which is now before congress, the Los Angeles official declared that the provision for research in the measure is so far reaching in its possibilities as to justify special emphasis.

"The people of our country, having set up a system of free schools, are inclined to take it for granted that there remains only to experience the universal benefits of literacy," the article points out.

"To their discomfiture it is found that there are unknown numbers of the illiterate and apparently increasing numbers of those mentally deficient or handicapped in body.

"The discovery of these unfortunate and the correction of their disabilities cannot be the sole responsibility of local remedial agencies, because such agencies do not always exist especially in the places where they are most needed.

"The enlightenment and wealth of the whole nation are needed to secure through research the facts as regards child conditions at large and to advise remedies.

"Such research is needed also to discover untapped sources of funds, to settle questions of unequal allocation of money, to devise a system of distribution of educational funds such that the children of one region shall not perish for lack of knowledge while those in another district perish from excess pampering of wayward and extravagant fancies."

Other subjects for research named by Susan Dorsey include the failure to secure the largest returns in student achievement, the overcoming of physical and mental deficiencies and the adaptation of all instruction to new experiences in a rapidly changing civilization.

Indicating that only a national department of education can conduct such studies and give their benefits to the whole nation, the writer declares that until such an agency begins to function, true universal free education is unachieved and unachievable.

There were Legion Men

Although the Santa Ana post has been more or less quiet during the past several weeks so far as entertainment and special meetings are concerned, post activity along other lines has been at its peak, according to Charles Van Wyk, commander.

A number of post commanders, who are members of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war went to Los Angeles Sunday where a meeting was held that left the impression that Bill Murphy, Santa Ana, would probably be the next state commander of the disabled vets.

Members of the Santa Ana post aided in the formation of a new post at Placentia last week. The Santa Ana post's bugle and drum corps played a big part in the ceremonies.

Saturday night the drum corps gave further publicity to the post by appearing at the Sciot's carnival at Huntington Beach. They were happily received and aside from that were entertained by the Huntington Beach post of the Legion.

Motion pictures of the bugle and drum corps were taken Sunday at the grounds of the Santa Ana high school. They are to be used in publicizing the post throughout the state.

The drum and bugle corps has rendered so much real service to the post recently, according to Hunter Leach, the chairman of the bugle and drum committee, and Charles Van Wyk, commander, that they are known as "The inter-community service reellers of Orange county."

The Los Angeles county council is endeavoring to have a city ordinance passed in that city making Armistice day a holiday and a meeting has been called for February 3, at the Patriotic hall.

Plans for a city-wide drive for new members for the Santa Ana post are rapidly taking form, according to Charles Van Wyk, commander. These plans will be presented to the post at the next regular meeting.

FOR ALL ORANGE COUNTY IS Orange County's Most Beautiful Furniture Store

We wish that we could impress this fact on every Orange county citizen. We are broad in our scope and plan of doing business. We are located near the exact center of the county, and include in our circle of friendly patrons many who live in the far corners.

Our competitors are not primarily located in this county. We are competing with, and aim to compete with, all "foreign" dealers. By that we mean the Mail-Order houses, Los Angeles dealers and dealers at the Beaches—where much county business has formerly gone. We aim to keep Orange county money in Orange county.

We compete with these "foreign dealers" by giving the best quality and styles of furniture at lower prices. It is not necessary for Orange county people to say that they can save by buying "elsewhere." They cannot, for we sell better merchandise at the lowest prices in Southern California.

We can afford to sell lower because our overhead is lower and our turnover is more rapid. Our purchasing power is greater for we buy in carload lots—thus saving in the original cost and in freight charges. We give you the benefit of this by selling at a very small profit.

Be Fair to Yourself and Family

If, and when, you are planning to buy furniture, you owe it to all concerned to at least INVESTIGATE WHAT WE CLAIM. WE CAN PROVE OUR CLAIMS TO YOU. We stock the best and leading lines of serviceable, stylish and beautifully designed furniture. Compare our prices. S. A. TWILIGHT LEAGUERS MEET THURSDAY

Peltzer Dodges Race With American Track Stars

GERMAN CHAMP WILL RUN ONLY IN SPECIALTIES

A. A. U. Likely to Stop All Disputes By Refusing to Give Visitor Permission

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The future over the proposed appearance of Dr. Otto Peltzer in three indoor meets this month divided today when it developed that the German champion probably would not meet Lloyd Hahn and other American middle distance stars, but would confine his running to special events against mediocre competition.

Peltzer was due here from Chicago today and has agreed to confer with members of the foreign relations committee of the A. A. U. tomorrow afternoon.

There is considerable likelihood that the committee will end all dispute among the member clubs of the A. A. U. over the German's services by declining to permit Peltzer to run at all.

Will Let Him Compete

If satisfied, however, that the holder of the world's record for the half-mile desires genuine competition in his three starts in this country, Dan Ferris and his associates will allow him to compete.

One reason for wanting Peltzer to start in the A. A. U. National championships here on February 25 was that the German star would be assured of scintillating company in some middle distance event.

The Milwaukee A. A. has denied indignantly that Peltzer's appearance at its games next Thursday night would, if authorized, be little more than an exhibition run.

But from the class of the opposition arranged for the German in the proposed 800 meters run, it is apparent that the others are expected to do little more than pursue Peltzer around the garden track.

Avoids Race With Hahn

When Peltzer named 800 meters as the distance he would choose to run in the Milwaukee games, he did so with the full knowledge that there was no such event on the regular program. Thus he avoided a meeting with Lloyd Hahn, Phil Edwards and other stars.

The same is true of Peltzer's proposals concerning the Illinois A. C. games and the K. of C. meet here.

It is doubtful if there will be much clamor for the German's appearance, once it is established that he does not desire to meet Hahn.

Should this interpretation of his intentions be unfair to Peltzer, he will have an opportunity to say so when he appears before the foreign relations committee tomorrow.

Uhle Says Movies Hurt Players' Eyes

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Movies are a detriment to a player's batting eye, according to George Uhle, star pitcher with the Cleveland Indians.

Uhle, who in his younger days was regarded as a carefree youth, has changed. He seldom reads and stays away from the theater to keep his eyes in good trim.

On and off the diamond, he is a keen student of baseball. Occasionally Uhle takes a short spin in his car from his home in Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland, or takes a stroll as a condition improver.

The veteran pitcher, although considered past his prime, has hopes of equalling the record he made in 1926 when he pitched the Indians to 26 victories.

FATES UNKIND TO SHEELY

A bad job of bone-setting back in 1912 when Earl Sheely was breaking into baseball slowed the great infielder and led to his recent release by the Chicago White Sox to the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league.

By BILLY EVANS

Earl Sheely, for seven years first baseman for the Chicago White Sox, has been sent to the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league. For so doing, Chicago, it is understood, gets the option on that club as selection of players at the close of the season.

That brief paragraph, as carried by the wires the other day, tersely told the tale of the passing of a former big league star to the minors.

Fate was unkind to Earl Sheely or he would have been starring in the big leagues for at least five years more. Fate came into the picture back in 1912, his first year in professional baseball. An unkind act of fate that year has been a terrific handicap ever since, yet Sheely carried on to great success.

Broke Ankle in 1912

While with Vancouver during the season of 1912, Sheely suffered a broken ankle. Whoever had charge of the injury certainly bungled the job, for Sheely's leg at the ankle assumed an almost grotesque line.

Naturally such a bad job of bone-setting prevented free action at the ankle and slowed Sheely up badly. This was far more noticeable on the bases than in the field, where his great height—six feet, four inches—helped cover up the defect as to covering ground.

Sheely first came into national prominence at Salt Lake in the Coast league back in 1916. Despite four good seasons, he always batted over .300, but the leg injury caused the scouts to pass him up because of lack of speed. However, a fat mark of .371 amassed in 1919 caused the Chicago White Sox to take a chance. He has been with that club ever since.

Clancy Took His Job

Last season a youngster, "Bud" Clancy, was given the preference at first base, which marked the beginning of the end for Sheely as a big leaguer.

Over 22 years I have been watching closely the star first sacker of the majors. I have seen some wonders in Hal Chase, George Sisler, "Stuffy" McInnis, Frank Chance and others of that calibre, yet in two respects Sheely was without an equal.

During all that time, I never saw a first baseman who could compare with Sheely in making plays with the gloved hand. He was simply uncanny.

Stabbing the ball with the gloved hand, as the runner comes crashing into the first baseman, is a play at which Sheely had no equal. It is one of baseball's most difficult plays.

Target for Infielders

His other strong point was taking high or low throws. There never was a better target for the other infielders. Of course, his great height was a big asset on the wildly thrown balls, but on low balls, digging 'em out of the dirt on the short hop, he was equally proficient.

Always a .300 batsman Sheely was a wonder on the hit hit-and-run play. With his wide range due to an extra long pair of legs, it was exceedingly difficult to pitch out on him in an attempt to outguess the hit-and-run play. In some way, he would manage to hit the ball and very often safely. The majors will miss the passing of Earl Sheely.

MILBURN SAYS POLO UMPIRING WAS JUSTIFIED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Polo circles here today were inclined to agree with Devereaux Milburn, captain and back of America's "big four" that the recent international polo matches were not so severely umpired as to destroy British chances of winning, as charged in the British press.

"I cannot remember a single penalty that I do not think was justified," Milburn wrote to the editor of Polo.

Captain Percy Creed, a British critic, wrote after the matches that the severity of the umpires devalitized the game and hindered the players.

America won the games 13 to 3, and 8 to 5.

ing of a player of Earl Sheely's calibre, because his standards off the field were as high as his play on the diamond. Earl Sheely was a real ball player and a gentleman.

Fate was mighty unkind to him. Only for that broken ankle, which slowed him up terribly on the bases, he would still be a big league star.

Hooks and Slides

CASE OF SPEAKER

Unless Tris Speaker agrees to do his centerfielding for some other club at a lower salary than the one he failed to get for another year from Washington, he is likely to be among those missing when the 1928 baseball curtain goes up in the majors.

Speaker was released a few days ago by the Senators because he refused to name a salary with a "substantial reduction" for the coming season.

While it was never announced what salary he received last year, it was said to be anywhere from $40,000 to $60,000. No doubt exists that it was a bit high for the good Speaker did for Washington.

He had a great year. There's no doubt of that. But the primary motive in the bidding that went on for Speaker's services last year was the attraction he was expected to be at the box office.

As a gate attraction, Speaker failed to draw the fans in as he was expected to do. That is the reason why the Senator owners could not see their way to paying him the same salary, whatever it was, again this year.

WHO WANTS HIM?

No major league club is likely to pay Speaker a salary anywhere near $40,000 for his services this season.

LONG SHOTS IN COFFROTH RACE ARE PLENTIFUL

TIJUANA RACE TRACK, Mex., Jan. 31.—If a person is looking for a price against a horse the latest quotations in the future book for the $100,000 Coffroth Handicap of Sunday, March 18, offer great possibilities. For a few dollars one who makes a wager on one of the long price horses might collect the proverbial "washtub full of money," as of course the runner picked must be first home to make this possible.

There are several honest-to-goodness long shots in the future book. One can get as much as 1000 to 1 against several. In this class are Clarifier, First Mission, Friar's Hope, Hawes, Johnny Callahan, Lawley, Major Mallon, Rensendrum, Richfield, Spic and Span and Totote. These horses can also be wagered on to run second and third at big prices, these being 400 to 1 for second and 200 to 1 for the third place.

Quite a few wagers have been recorded on the real long shots for the Coffroth. For instance, Mrs. Betty Sloan, former wife of Tod Sloan, once the world's premier jockey, registered a choice for Johnny Callahan. This horse is named in honor of Johnny Callahan, the oldest jockey in actual racing at this time. Mrs. Sloan wagered only $20 on Johnny Callahan to win, but should this one be first to the wire she will collect the snug sum of $20,000.

There are several Coffroth candidates in the latest quotations that are held at 500 to 1. Quite a few are found at 400 to 1 and 300 to 1. There has been a general shift in the prices in the last few days for heavy commissions on some horses have forced their prices down and lack of support for others have sent the odds up. For instance, a heavy New Or-

An object, a tremendously large object, suddenly attracted his attention in that little cove. It appeared to be the body of a man and Bemus, thinking it was that of a drowned man, hastened to the cove and waded out almost to his waist.

ASSIGN SPRING SPORT COACHES AT POLY. J. C.

Assignment of the various members of the Santa Ana high school and junior college coaching staffs for their parts in the spring sports program was announced today.

G. A. ("Tex") Oliver, head football coach in the high school, will have charge of track and spring football. Track work already has been started and the preliminary work in football will begin in about six weeks, Oliver said.

Bill Cook, junior college football leader and now directing Class C basketball, will have complete charge of junior college track, it was announced. Cook was a member of the University of Southern California track squad for two seasons, helping the Trojans win the I. C. A. A. A. meet one year by placing in the javelin at the National Intercollegiate class.

football and Class C basketball, will be varsity coach of baseball in the junior college.

This will be the first time in the history of the local college that track and baseball have each had a full-time counselor. Last year Graham Harris was coach of both activities.

Bill Foote, head basketball coach, will assume charge of the high school baseball squad as soon as the cage season is completed next month.

HAS PUGILISTIC ASPIRATIONS

Al Lassman, known among the footballers as "TNT," believes there is no reason why a big college boy can't get along in the professional ring and he's going to try it when he finishes his course at New York university. He broke his leg during the football season and is just now getting into condition to train.

SANTA ANA JUNIOR COLLEGE CAGERS MEET SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY HERE TONIGHT

Southwestern university's annual invasion of the Santa Ana junior college campus will be celebrated tonight when the much-feared basketball team from the little Los Angeles law school comes to Andrews gymnasium to face Coach Walter Scott's Dons, one of the ranking contenders in the Southern California Junior College conference. Game-time is 8 o'clock. There will be no preliminary.

The Southwesterners have made quite a flourish in the cage activity this term and while they don't get the publicity in the Los Angeles sport journals they are, nevertheless, regarded as a sufficient ability as to require Santa Ana's first string as an opposition.

Scott intends to start his regulars, Captain Allee, Edgar, Youel, Cook and White, but will take advantage of the non-conference battle to give virtually all of his squad members a workout.

Santa Ana faces Long Beach in a league imbroglio here later in the week and this match will definitely determine the Dons' status in the titular going. Long Beach has a much more impressive record, having beaten its rivals by larger scores than has Santa Ana, but it will be remembered that Scott has made no effort to run up totals on his opponents preferring to test the strength of his reserves.

President Bullock Announces For All Folk Interest To Attend First Con-

It's a far cry from winter to summer recreational activity but those ambitious Santa Ana Twilight leaguers are already planning for the most important organization in their history.

Seth Bullock, president of 1927 Twilight league, announced today that a meeting of officers, representatives, fans and all others interested in the 1928 league would be held in the city chambers of the city hall Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Bullock said that this would be an absolutely open and he urged fandom to a in a body to discuss problem the coming year and to assist the preparations of organization into a more united body.

Tentative plans, Bullock called for a 10-team league summer with a schedule considerably longer than that of the first game probably played at Lincoln park, the Ana home of twilight and baseball, about the middle of the season.

Competition will be limited strictly to business men. The play will be more for sport and recreation than urge for championships and plans of the old officers and not go awry. In fact, it is probable that some kind of rule will be passed prohibiting the importation of youth and more adept players.

"We feel that there is some kind of a league Santa Ana's business men have at least one afternoon a to play and where they feel that their inability is 'back' the rest of the team," he said. "We don't expect we don't want our league fast. We feel that the baseball organization will care of that."

"There will be plenty of for the older and more youngsters to get their sports leagues. At any rate as many of those interested to attend meeting and their views so that we will just how everybody stands proposition."

Night baseball followers taken no steps toward preparation for the coming season but dent Otto A. Jacobs of the Ana Commission has indicated that he will issue a call meeting sometime during ruary.

Stanford-Troy Cage Game Is Called Off

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 31.—Friday night's basketball game between Stanford and U. S. C. was postponed today, and the possibility loomed that Stanford's entire schedule of sports would be canceled following the discovery of eight cases of infantile paralysis on the campus here.

A quarantine is in effect on the grounds here and social functions have been abandoned. Students of Stanford are eating from paper cups and drinking from paper cups to prevent the disease from spreading.

He does not think of the Turk as athletic. Then, I think, one visualizes a well-fed individual, beneath a few kind of a hookah, contemplating the exercises of someone else, profeminine.

Turkey, it seems, has ambitions of an athletic nature in connection with the forthcoming Olympic Games. Turkey is not a fast runner, by nature, nor is he gifted in the leaps high or far or tossing weights about. He skates not, can he ski, but a soccer football, the Turk is not so bad.

Accordingly, Turkey is pinning its hopes of athletic triumph in the Olympic games upon the success of its football team. Turkey has word from Ankara that a Turkish team, with reserves, has gone into strict training. "No Turkish paste or hookah," and lights out in the harem at 10 p. m., are the orders by the head coach.

A Turkish team is going to Prague in March to play a series of games against the best Czech-Slovakian clubs. The Czechs will be Turkey's good work-out, for soccer football is well played in that country.

For the matches in Czech-Slovakia, the Turkish team will go to Prague to become acclimated before the Olympic contests which begin August 12.

Interest in the Ninth Olympiad at present is focussed upon the Olympic winter games at St. Moritz.

Plan is on foot to make these winter sports the basis of medical scientific examination.

Medical authorities from Germany, Holland and Poland, will examine the skaters, ski-runners and hockey players before their exertions.

A large hut designed for the purpose has been erected near the line. A weighing and measuring department is being established, by the competitors' bodies can be studied, as well as the relationship of various countries to anthropological categories, if you know that means.

It is proposed to examine the lungs of competitors, as well as their circulation and digestion.

Whether the athletes will take kindly to these scientific pursuits, themselves as specimens, remains to be seen.

After winning the Olympic championship for figure skating for Miss Maribel Vinson, or another of the American competitors, prefer to sit down to a stimulating glass of Swiss malted milk or have you, in preference to submitting her lungs and blood to the inspection of the Polish and German scientists.

America's ski-jumpers may be interested in other things than the question of their birth and digestion.

At the scientists take their plan quite seriously.

DEAF AND DUMB MAN FREE OF MURDER CHARGE

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

PARIS, Jan. 31.—A murderer, perfectly sane, who could not comprehend ordinary court procedure and would not have been able to understand any sentence passed upon him, has presented the criminal court here with one of the most remarkable cases on record.

Jacques Devay, 24, was born deaf and never learned to talk. He could not read or write and never learned the sign language. He was otherwise mentally alert and enjoyed good health.

Devay was a tenant in a makeshift home of a man named Proust. Other occupants were a former singer and her daughter. Proust was given to spells of drinking. One night he came home in bad temper and struck the girl. Devay attempted to calm him, but failed, and finally produced a revolver and fired it in the air. Proust was not intimidated and continued his abuse, whereupon Devay shot and killed him.

When brought to trial Devay was unable to understand the interpreter for deaf-mutes. By using his own signs he was able to reconstruct the scene of the shooting, first playing the part of Proust, going through the motions of drinking a bottle of wine and of beating a person and then, in his own character, he moved his arm as though firing a revolver. To distinguish between the parts, he placed his hand over one eye when acting as Proust, who was blind in one eye. He showed remarkable histrionic ability, the result of a lifetime of motion making.

But the court was lost when questions were put to the accused. A juror wanted to know if Devay intended to kill Proust, or merely to stop the beating. The interpreter went through all sorts of motions to express the subtleties of this question, but Devay could not get him. Other delicate legal points could not be cleared up.

Finally, Attorney Allehaut, for the defense, pointed out that the jury must return a verdict of acquittal because proper evidence could not be taken, that the man could not communicate with his peers. The court agreed and the jury acquitted the accused. The interpreter made gestures to indicate the freedom of the great open spaces, and Devay got these without any difficulty.

An Affair of Honor

Another amusing court case, with even a more triumphant ending, arose out of the American legion convention here last September. To the twelfth court of Paris was called one Sedley Peck, American resident of Paris, to answer charges of libel against Colonel James Porter Fiske of the United States Reserve Medical corps. Damages of only one franc were asked, but there had been much talk of personal honor and professional prestige involved.

Colonel Fiske, some months ago, warned delegates to the American legion convention to be very careful what they ate and drank while in France. He warned, it was pointed out, against the water, the cooking and the wines.

Sedley Peck sprang to the defense of France. Mr. Peck, who comes from Los Angeles, served with the American forces in France during the war and has remained here. He wears a luxurious beard and a Basque beret, and even his best friends will not deny that he is a picturesque figure.

He knows Paris well and loves it. He is now adjutant of Paris post of the American legion, and did publicity work for Paris post in the interests of his comrades.

In his capacity as publicity man, Peck said a few things about Colonel Fiske and his warnings which amused Americans and thrilled all good Frenchmen.

Cast-Iron Defense

Into court came Peck, with French and American friends rallying behind him, to tell French court officials why he had so stoutly defended French cooking and French wines and even French water for American consumption.

On these France had thrived, and either there was something wrong with France or there was something wrong with Colonel Fiske.

The hearing was brief. Colonel Fiske was not awarded his franc. The good name of Peck was preserved and what he said in the affair with Fiske goes as far as the French court is concerned. Amid cheers and shouts of congratulation, Peck was carried out of court on the shoulders of his friends.

Californian Has Gas Well In Yard

WILLIAMS, Calif., Jan. 31.—What's the use of paying for gas when it is flowing almost in your back yard?

Thus questioned Frank Schuckman, owner of the Mountain House ranch, 12 miles west of Williams, who ordered a 1000-gallon storage tank hauled out to his place.

The tank is used for storing natural gas from a well near the ranch. The well, drilled more than 20 years ago, is furnishing gas for cooking and illuminating purposes.

An Aztec Temple Reopened After 400 Years

Led by a Mexican's Dream,
Scientists Find Two Altars
Where Indian Priests
Cut Out the Hearts
Of Human Sacrifices
To the Great God
Tezcatlipoca

Panfilo Sanchez. . . . A long-dead ancestor came to him in a dream . . . led him to rich ruins.

The great and warlike Tezcatlipoca . . . Aztec lord of all things, from an official drawing of one of the altar frescoes.

By
EMMA REH STEVENSON

THE RUINS of a prehistoric Aztec temple recently discovered beneath fragmentary walls of one of the first Christian churches in the new world, near Tizatlan in the Mexican state of Tlaxcala, an old town not far east of Mexico City, are gradually yielding their ancient secrets.

Tales of human sacrifice and weird midnight rites of penitence and mortification are told by beautiful fresco paintings on the sides of sacrificial altars found in the temple. Eduardo Noguera, of the Department of Archeology of the Mexican Ministry of Education, who is in charge of excavations at the site, calls these multicolored symbolic pictures true Aztec codices.

This makes the discovery rare in the realms of archeology, for there are only thirty odd Mexican codices in existence. These historical, chronological or religious records in picture form of ancient American races are scattered throughout the museums of the world, in Florence, Vienna, London, Rome, Paris, Mexico City and elsewhere. They are on prehistoric paper of maguey, or on parchment, or in case of codices made by the Indians after the Conquest, on European paper or linen, but it is very unusual to find them painted on the walls of buildings.

The discovery of the Tlaxcalan temple once more flashes the strange life lived centuries ago in America on the screen of today.

The Tlaxcalans were an insurgent branch of the Aztec family. When almost all the rest of Mexico bowed to the yoke of the Montezumas, they built a wall around their sturdy mountain republic and continued their peaceful pursuits well protected by their reputation as the fiercest warriors in Mexico.

Their republic was divided into four parts, each governed by its hereditary lord. One of these was Tizatlan, and the ruins just excavated are believed to be the temple of its last lord, Xicotencatl.

THE Tlaxcalans balked at becoming allies to Cortez, even against their hereditary enemies, the Aztec, under Montezuma at Mexico City, until they had been defeated in several fierce encounters by the European soldiers mounted on curious animals and carrying deadly fire-spitting arms.

Young Xicotencatl, son of the old lord of Tizatlan, was never "sold" on the Conquistadores, who had come marching up from Vera Cruz. He hid the treasure of his house from the greedy eyes of the white men, and when they least expected it he turned traitor toward them but was found out and executed. The whereabouts of his treasure, however, was never disclosed and has come down only as a legend to his present-day descendants in the mud hut and cactus village of Tizatlan.

The discovery of the temple ruins is but the last chapter in a 400-year-old tale of buried treasure. A queer young Mexican Indian of Tizatlan named Panfilo Sanchez, and a direct descendant of Xicotencatl, claimed that his ancestor appeared to him in a dream a number of times and led him to the spot where the treasure was supposed to be buried.

All Tizatlan began to dig at the place marked out in the dream, with the result that the ruins of the ancestral temple of the ancient republic were discovered. No gold or gems were found, but the sacrificial altars with their gorgeous frescoes, more beautifully preserved than the ruins of the Christian church which covered the site four centuries ago, are real treasures in the eyes of scientists. Two weeks after the natives of the village began their hasty digging, the Mexican Department of Archeology took charge of the work and continued the excavations in a scientific manner.

THE ruins are on the highest part of an artificial hill. The temple was probably erected in honor of Camaxtli, Aztec hunting god and the principal deity of the Tlaxcalans, Senor Noguera believes. It shows signs of violent destruction and was probably smashed by the invaders and replaced with a Christian church by the Spaniards, who used the spots sacred under the old regime for shrines for the new. A second Christian church, younger than the first, but already long in disuse, stands at the side.

Its back rooms, facing a sunny patio, have been used as a rural school for the last three years, incidentally the first school in the village of Tizatlan in 400 years. One of the class-rooms, filled with brown children busy at their varied tasks, serves also as a museum for the objects dug up in the ruins by the Indians and the government archeologists.

The ruins are in the shape of a quadrangle in the center of which there are two stone platforms about a foot and a half high, four feet wide and six feet long. They are painted on three sides with colorful motifs symbolic of sacrifice and death. The short front walls are divided down the middle by a vertical canal, probably for the collection of that sacred liquid offered to the Creator, the most precious thing a human had to offer, his own blood.

The fourth and unpainted sides of the two altars are flanked by a series of pillars badly broken by the treasure hunters. They are of plastered adobe with cores of wood within. A stairway made of true brick, the finest encountered in prehistoric American ruins, leads down to unknown depths in the temple which have not yet been uncovered. No one can say what treasures may yet be found on the site.

Many small idols and ornaments of baked clay and stone have been found within the ruins, in addition to many examples of finely painted pottery, clay whistles, clay nails, and other objects beautifully decorated in the rich colors the Aztecs loved.

But the real treasures are the two sacsacrificial altars with their precious codices.

The most striking figure on the west altar front is the warlike Tezcatlipoca, of serious mien and gorgeous trappings. He was the Divine Providence of the Aztecs, the soul of the world, the creator of heaven and earth, the lord of all things.

His figure in the frescoes stands taut, having just let fly an "atlatl," or spear, from his right hand. His body, arms and legs are black, and his face is yellow with a black stripe. He wears a blue ornament in his nose and a blue and yellow trident feather headdress in his hair.

On his breast he wears a blue ornament with dangling cascabels of gold, ancient Aztec symbols of relationship with the Evening Star. On his temple he wears the "smoking mirror," the emblem of war as well as the meaning of his name, "Tezcatlipoca." He has another "smoking mirror" in place of his right foot, and from each of these curious objects issue yellow fire and blue water. In his right hand he carries a purse of precious copal gum, ready to burn for the sacrifice, and in his left he carries a shield.

On one side of Tezcatlipoca stands Tonatiuh, the Aztec Sun-God, looking toward heaven. He too carries a bag of copal and in addition a sharpened femur bone and spines of the maguey plant—characteristic instruments of self-torture.

On the other side stands the warlike figure of gruesome Miclantecutli, God of Death, his body a skeleton and his head a cranium. He has thrown about him a mantle of blue and he too has just hurled a spear.

The other sides of the altar have wide horizontal bands with symbolic representations of the human heart, cranium, and hand, repeated symmetrically in red on a background of black.

THE east altar has a series of pictures which were more difficult to decipher, but they contained the real key to the true significance of the temple.

The short front face of this altar is covered with brilliantly colored drawings of various divinities grouped around a central female figure of a yellow goddess swimming in blue water. Comparison with similar paintings on various other Aztec codices showed that this was the Goddess of Impure Love.

At her right stands a yellow tiger with black spots. His eyes are large disks, divided by a horizontal line, with the upper half white and the lower half red. On the other side of the goddess stands an eagle with his wings outspread.

The long sides of the altar are decorated with a checker-board effect of double rows of 13 squares containing various symbols. There are many curious conventionalized figures of scorpions, instruments of torture, and blood-signs, as well as the same conventionalized human hearts, hands and craniums that are found on the first altar.

Archeologists find that the scorpion has various meanings among the old Aztecs. It was the sacred animal of the God of Fire as well as of the God of Death. In some codices the scorpion is the symbol for boiling water, probably because its sensation is the same as the sting of the animal, from which connection it may also symbolize fire.

In the Tizatlan codices, however, the scorpion represents self-sacrifice, mortification and penitence, Senor Noguera concludes. These figures of scorpions speak eloquently of intense fanaticism, of self-inflicted wounds in return for victory in battle, in expiation of sins, or for future blessings sought.

"These altar paintings are the evidence of exalted religious ideals of the race," Senor Noguera said. "The art is primitive and far removed from our own type of mentality, but nevertheless admirable for its execution and finish."

No greater religious spirit moved the medieval European artists who painted Christian saints and madonnas on chapel walls than inspired the passionate painter who left other ideals of crucifixion on heathen altar sides in the American wilderness.

Every motif in the paintings typifies some phase of Aztec sacrificial rites, and the whole series of pictures is a complete allegory showing the intensity of religious fervor and revealing the painful means by which it found expression.

MIDNIGHT was the hour for the weird rites symbolized in the paintings on the holy altar sides. The eyes of the scorpions and the other animals are shown as disks divided by a horizontal line, with the top half of one color and the bottom of another. This divided eye is the Aztec symbol of midnight and appears often in Aztec ruins.

At this hour sounded the caracols of seashell trumpets in the temples and awakened the priests, who formed a strange procession to the top of the temple. There they performed their bloody sacrifices. According to the colonial historian Sahagun, the Aztec word for midnight is "tlatlapitzilpan netetecquipan," or "when the caracols sound and the flesh is wounded." There their victims suffered inhuman tortures on the intricately decorated altars of sacrifice and death.

There is no indication of a date or of any detail which will give an idea of the time of the pictures. They are the symbols of some great seasonal festa or of a dedication to some deity in whose honor the altars were built.

To what important circumstances the temple owes its existence is enfolded in mystery. Fray Motolinia, an early colonial historian, describes a great fiesta held by the Tlaxcalans in honor of the principal god Camaxtli. It began with a feast that lasted many days. Human sacrifices were made on high Netlacueye, now Mt. Malinchi, whose peak often glistens with snow as it looks down on the sunny maguey fields in the valley and on the ruined churches that hide the heathen temple of Tizatlan today.

The high priests fashioned sharp knives of obsidian found on the extinct volcano's sides with which to cut out the heart of the victims. They also made sharp picks of the volcanic glass with which to pierce their own tongues while chanting religious hymns.

Obsidian was a material of very great importance in the lives of the ancient Aztecs. It is a natural glass that has a remarkably even grain.

Maya craftsmen, it is known, were extremely skillful at making a great variety of implements from obsidian, taking huge blocks of it and separating the substance into long flakes, thin and narrow and with edges of razor-like sharpness.

Obsidian flakes have been found set in the edges of flat wooden clubs, which seem to have been the favorite weapon of the early residents of Mexico. These clubs, with their sharp, hard edges, were capable of decapitating a man at a single blow.

Obsidian was also used by the Aztecs for masks, personal ornaments of various kinds and mirrors. These objects were made by means of laborious engraving and polishing and almost rank as sculpture.

Whether the altars at Tizatlan are the identical ones that figured in the ceremonies connected with Mt. Malinchi cannot be proven at the present time. But the ruins have hardly been scratched, and when the next excavation season begins another chapter may be revealed in the strange past of its builders.

TODAY'S Horoscope

JANUARY 31, 1928
A new born today has especially good eyes—eyes that last a lifetime if properly treated. Such eyes will be helpful for many things, such as looking at things, winking, girls, druggists, etc. They will be different from the non garden variety of eyes such as: Black, squint, blue, pie, wall, blear, woozy. They will have no trouble seeing what a good store yours is to visit.

They'll certainly be these great values—42-pc. sets of china; a $15 gold and set for $8.95; $12.50 blue and white decorated set for $7.95; others just as good.

CITY PLANNING EXPLAINED IN ORANGE TALKS

ORANGE, Jan. 31.—Outlining a plan that would bring many of the present buildings of the city into conformity with it and insure a harmonious future building program, William Prentiss Jr., chairman of the city planning committee, and Horatio Bishop, Hollywood architect, spoke last night at the meeting of the chamber of commerce in the L. O. F. hall.

Prentiss briefly reviewed the state planning law, which was passed after the present planning committee was appointed, explaining that the committee on which he served was a volunteer body. Prentiss brought to the attention of his hearers the fact that no zoning law was in effect in Orange, only as the city followed the state code.

The speaker pointed out that the plans made for the city would only go as far as the people wished. Orange, he said, had always gone over the top in every project attempted. It is a city, he declared, that has the most marvelous setting in the world. With a population of 8500, it has a business district that would be sufficient for a population of 60,000, he said.

Bishop, head of the league of architects of Hollywood, spoke of the influence of architecture on life. Among other things he said that the whole world was looking to Southern California for good style in architecture.

Bishop illustrated his lecture with slides showing different types of architecture from early English and Norman to the Spanish so much in evidence in California.

One of the most interesting of the slides shown was the common in Salem, Mass., where all of the surrounding buildings conform to the same style. As it is planned to have the building surroundings the plaza rebuilt in the Spanish form, the slide was of particular interest.

Bishop pointed out that the Chapman avenue bridge would have to be widened at some near future time. Pictures of proposed entrances to the bridge and to the highways leading into the city were presented.

The TiniMites sang and worked away. To build a mud house was like play. Wee Scouty said, "Just see my hands. They're black as black can be. But I know what we all can do. We'll wash up clean when we are through. And for a towel we'll use big leaves from off a nearby tree."

And then the slim man jumped and cried, "Say, I need food in my inside. We'd better rest and wash up now. Then I'll prepare a meal." "Oh, fine!" cried Carry. "Come on, bunch. Our friend suggests a dandy lunch. He says that he is hungry. That's exactly how I feel."

They found a stream not far away, and shortly Carry shouted, "Hey! Quit splashing water on me. I will catch my death of cold." Then Carry snapped, "Don't be so cross at us. I'm really at a loss to know why you find fault so much and always have to scold." They finished washing very soon, and then the slim man said,

"It's noon, and just the proper time to eat. I have a treat in store. Now watch this clever trick I'll do." He brought a basket into view, and said, "How's that? It's full of food. Just what we're craving for." The TiniMites ate like all birds would, and found the food was very good. And then they all returned to work upon their mud house again. It wasn't long till it was done, and Scouty said, "Well that was fun. I guess it does a person good to labor now and then." "And now," the funny slim man cried, "We'll drive the animals all inside. And then we can all rest. It's been a very tiresome day." But when the whole bunch looked around, the animals could not be found. While everyone was busy they had turned and run away.

Shoe string or shredded potatoes are cut in slices about one-fourth inch thick and these slices cut in one-fourth inch strips. They are soaked in cold water for one hour and drained, dried and fried like French fries.

Saratoga chips are cut in paper-thin slices crosswise of pared potatoes and dropped immediately into cold water. Let stand one hour, changing the water twice. Drain and dry between towels a few at a time. Drop into hot fat and fry until a golden brown. Drain on soft paper, sprinkle lightly with salt and serve warm or cold.

Saratoga chips can be kept for several days and reheated and crisped in the oven.

Beauty Chats

BY ANN ALYSIS

Teeth require infinite care to keep them immaculately clean and lustrous, the foundations of tooth beauty.

Brushing the teeth after each meal to remove particles of food that otherwise might remain to decay, using a good dentifrice morning and night to bring out their luster, are the best means we can employ to keep our teeth in the jewel class.

Correcting defects of shape and setting and repairing damage of wear and tear are jobs for the dentist. And take time by the forelock and consult your favorite dentist twice yearly, so that his effort may be put on keeping your teeth in first class condition, rather than repairing damage already done.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Four characters—a dozen complications, and a veritable hurricane of fun—these are what make up the details of "Baby Mine," the second hilarious vehicle for the comedy team of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, waited to fame on a gale of merriment in "Rookles" and now the center of a new storm of laughs at the West Coast-Walker theater.

"Baby Mine" is just one laugh after another. Adapted from one of the most famous stage comedies, the screen version preserves all the original fun—to which is added not only the Dane-Arthur combination of laughmakers, but Charlotte Greenwood, lanky comedienne of "So Long Letty" and other famous stage shows. It's Charlotte's debut on the screen, incidentally—but judging by the laughs she gets it's not going to be her last appearance by a good deal.

The trio is responsible for a solid hour and more of chuckles, giggles and guffaws.

WEST END THEATER

"No Place To Go," which is playing this week at the West End theater, has enough novelty to satisfy the most jaded film patron. Mary Astor shares honors with Lloyd Hughes.

The South Sea Islands, always a welcome scene to those who have or have not been there, are portrayed most attractively in this comedy-drama. And a cannibal island village is very funny.

One of the most effective scenes, however, is the "Cannibal Isle" roof garden in New York, with a jungle admirably presented and where the entertainers dance the modern versions of the aboriginal gyrations.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Glen Tryon, star of the farce comedy, "A Hero for a Night," which comes to the Broadway theater as the feature attraction tonight, has had one of the most interesting and varied careers of any actor in the industry.

Tryon was born in Butte, Montana, and made his first stage appearance at the age of nine. None of his family was connected in any way with the stage and all violently opposed his following it as a

MILK BOTTLE DETECTIVE ON JOB IN STATE

By EARL H. LEIF
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—Be-ware of California's milk bottle detective! He is hot on the trail of the elusive milk container drifting promiscuously about in the state.

Few people know that California has an official sleuth, whose duties are to apprehend milk bottles, cans and containers that have been lost, strayed or stolen from their rightful owners.

A. W. Hayes, working under the direction of the state department of agriculture, is the "gumshoe man" referred to.

During the three months he has been on the job, Hayes has returned more than $12,000 worth of bottles to their original owners.

This sleuth doesn't confine his activities to the return of bottles. Ice cream freezers, five and ten gallon milk cans, soda pop bottles and sundry other containers of liquids and foods that should be returned to the shipper, come under his jurisdiction.

The little restaurant around the corner will no longer be permitted to use a milk can for a soup mixer and the innocent milk bottle can no longer masquerade as a cocktail shaker now that Hayes is snooping around the corner.

This unique job was created by act of the 1927 legislature, when industries directly connected with bottling gave their undivided support to the measure.

California's bottle detective pursues his quarry by methods very different from those employed by the infallible Monsieur Lecoq, Sherlock Holmes and Nick Carter.

Upon being informed of a dealer who has designs on the inviolable milk bottle, Hayes hastens to the scene in his automobile.

Upon arriving at the suspected store, he stalks right in and investigates. He disdains the use of the proverbial magnifying glass and looks only for the name of the owner of the bottles. Should he find such a name, the proprietor is warned of his illegal possession, and the bottles are returned.

Hayes, who dubs himself "the papa of all orphan milk bottles," says that there have been only two prosecutions since the law went into effect.
